

Sarah Birdsall Bio

Sarah Birdsall has lived in Alaska most of her life and is the author of Wild Rivers, Wild Rose (University of Alaska Press, 2020), which was the 2021 WILLA Literary Award Winner in Historical Fiction, and Hill of Dead Horses (Epicenter Press, 2025) among others. A new novel, Snow Angels, Angel Dust is forthcoming from Epicenter Press. Her short fiction has appeared in the Alaska Quarterly Review, Cirque, and Alaska Women Speak. A former award-winning journalist and a Rasmuson Foundation and Alaska Literary Award/Alaska State Council on the Arts award recipient, she has an MFA in creative writing from the University of Alaska Anchorage and lives in her hometown of Talkeetna, Alaska.