

Anne Coray

Anne Coray's debut novel Lost Mountain is published with West Margin Press. She is the author of three full-length poetry collections, a recent chapbook, and coeditor of Crosscurrents North: Alaskans on the Environment. Her work has appeared in the Southern Review, Northwest Review, Poetry, North American Review, and AQR. The recipient of fellowships from the Alaska State Council on the Arts and the Rasmuson Foundation, she divides her time between Homer and her birthplace on remote Lake Clark (Qizhjah Vena) in southwest Alaska.